GIRL OF THE YEAR[®] 2009

Win this 2009
American Girl Chrissa
Doll and Book!
*Details below

Chrissa Maxwell is American Girl's 2009 Girl of the Year. Her books, her movie, and the Chrissa doll all help you get to know her. This special Web site:

<http://www.americangirl.com/girloftheyear/> is another great way to learn more about Chrissa. It helps show how to deal with one of the biggest challenges that Chrissa faces in her stories—and that real girls face today:

bullying.

Attention USAGSO-WP!

Take Action now to stop bullying in your communities.

Girl Scouts.

Through this exciting American Girl program, and the new journey series It's your World- Change it!, we have the opportunity to take the anti-bullying message to our Girl Scout Juniors, and teach them how to take a stand, just like Chrissa does.

How to Participate:

Between NOW and November 30, 2009 do any/all of the following:

- Hold an event using the FREE Stand Together Stop Bullying curriculum guide
- Use our "Chrissa Stands Strong" kit to host a book/movie club and meet 3-4 times over the summer to enjoy the book(s) and view/discuss the movie (books and movie can be borrowed from the Okinawa Service Center)
- Design a poster that shows what YOU can do to stop the bullying

How to enter to win the 2009 American Girl of the Year Doll -Chrissa:

Each Girl Scout who participates in one or more of the activities listed above will automatically be entered to win the doll. For "add a friend" the names must be turned in on the form provided and verified in the membership system. Posters* must be no larger than 8.5X14 (legal). All entries (girl names and poster designs) should be sent to the Okinawa Service Center by the end of the contest, November 30 2009.

(Drawing to take place Dec. 5)
